Part 3

For each question, choose the correct answer.

Mark Charles: Extreme Weather Photographer

Mark Charles is a storm chaser and a weather photographer. During his career, he's taken photos of all kinds of amazing weather, including tornadoes, thunderstorms and hurricanes. His photos have appeared in many scientific magazines.

Mark has also successfully appeared in documentaries on American TV to discuss severe weather, storm chasing and global warming. He's an energetic and keen speaker. He's written fascinating articles about our changing weather and is the author of a very popular blog about extreme weather and several books. So how did Mark begin his career?

Mark grew up in Wisconsin in the USA, where ice storms, blizzards, floods and tornadoes are common. When he was six years old, he saw his first hurricane at close hand and he never forgot the experience. A few years later, his mother bought him a camera. Mark was more interested in recording the sound effects of weather than taking photographs. He used to spend hours recording sound outdoors. He did it as a hobby when he was a little boy, but he soon became very interested in extreme weather. He has journals with notes and some pictures that he collected. He discovered how some weather factors interacted and when you could expect to have a thunderstorm or ice storms. He was just an observer but that was enough to teach him quite a lot about the world around him. When he was a teenager, he used to read about all sorts of extreme weather events in the newspaper and he sometimes went to the library to look for scientific magazines on specific topics. He even joined an after school club that organized trips to observe weather patterns.

Mark studied journalism, not photography, at university and began his career as a writer working on local newspapers. He was good at his job and he never regretted that he'd become a journalist, but he kept his childhood interest in storms and when, in his late twenties, he saw an advert for a storm-chasing holiday in Tornado Alley, he joined the group and took his camera with him. Eventually, Mark's photography took over from journalism and he became the artist he is today.

11 What does the writer say about Mark's photos?

- A They show a lot of incredible weather conditions.
- B They have been published in many important books.
- C They have been the subject of several popular documentaries.
- D They have changed a surprising amount over time.

12 What does the writer say about Mark?

- A He can't share his knowledge about extreme weather on the Internet.
- B He's good at talking about weather.
- C He dislikes writing about extreme weather events.
- D He isn't keen on appearing in the media.

13 What do we learn about Mark's childhood?

- A He enjoyed taking photographs of hurricanes.
- B He became interested in extreme weather.
- C He was afraid of severe storms.
- D He got hurt during a hurricane.

14 What does the writer say about Mark's early career?

- A He wished he had studied photography at university.
- B He was good at writing about the news.
- C He took excellent photographs of local events.
- D He was better at art than at journalism.

15 What is the writer's main aim in writing the text?

- |          |  |          |  |
|----------|--|----------|--|
| A | to give advice on becoming a photographer  | B | to encourage people to take up photography       |
| C | to describe the career of one photographer | D | to explain how to take photos of extreme weather |

Five sentences have been removed from the text below.

For each question, choose the correct answer.

There are three extra sentences which you do not need to use.

Lost in the mountains

When you're a mountain rescue volunteer, you never know when you're going to be called to work. We go out in all weather, and at any time of the day or night. If someone is in danger, there's no time to lose. On New Year's Day last year, I was sitting down to breakfast with my family. 16 _____ Two hikers had decided to celebrate the new year by walking along a mountain ridge in Country Kerry, Ireland, just a few miles from my home. They were staying in a small guest house, and had set off early on New Year's Eve. When they didn't return by the following morning, their host became worried and called the police. 17 _____

I was just one of 12 volunteers who left our breakfast tables and set out to look for the missing hikers. We pushed through strong winds and thick cloud, calling and listening over and over again. 18 _____ It was too cold to survive for long out on the mountains, and the hikers had been missing for a whole day and night. 19 _____ I shouted out, and was relieved to hear a voice shout back. 20 _____ They were so happy to see us. They explained that they'd got lost, and the winds had been too strong for them to keep walking. Luckily, they had warm clothes, food and the tent.

We led them back down the mountain and returned them to their guest house, where a delicious hot meal was waiting for them and for the rescue volunteer team. They said that they'll never forget that New Year's Day when they were rescued by local people who became heroes.

- A The police called the Kerry Mountain Rescue Team.
- B The hikers were huddled together in a small tent between two large rocks.
- C They said it's extremely dangerous to go hiking in bad weather.
- D Nobody answered back so we began to lose hope.
- E We didn't know they had already found their way home.
- F Suddenly, I heard the sound of a whistle.
- G We were just about to start eating when my phone rang.
- H After searching all night, we gave up and went back home.
